ABSTRACT

A statistical portrait of crime and deliquency in California in 1985 is presented in this document. These topics are discussed and illustrated by data tables and graphs: crimes (violent, property); arrests (felony, misdemeanor, changes in rates); adult felony arrest dispositions (dispositions, arrestees convicted); adult corrections (supervision, caseload, adults committed to state institutions); juvenile justice system (arrests, dispositions, referrals, juvenile court); criminal justice agency expenditures and personnel; and citizens' complaints against peace officers. A criminal justice glossary and an explanation of known data limitations are provided in the appendix. A concluding data section gives 67 detailed tables of statistics on various categories of crime, arrests, convictions, dispositions, criminal justice agency expenditures, and numbers of justice personnel, sometimes providing several years' data. The report is further illustrated with reproductions of drawings by George Cruikshank. (ABL)

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S

For the first time since 1980, the crime rate, as measured by the California Crime Index, has shown a slight increase amounting to .6 percent. This follows an unprecedented four-year decline in a generally increasing spiral that began in the 1950s. A gain of 6.8 percent in the motor vehicle theft rate is the primary factor influencing the rise in the California Crime Index. A probable contributor to this rise is the increased opportunity for auto theft presented by a growth in the number of motor vehicles as evidenced by increased registrations during 1985.

Overall, since 1980, felony and misdemeanor arrest rates for adults have increased by 6.5 percent, while decreasing for juveniles by 13.3 percent. However, in 1984 and 1985, juvenile arrest rates increased, particularly for drug law violations. The narcotics category alone was up by over 70 percent during each of those years.

MESSAGE . . . .

Since 1980, the increase in the total adult and juvenile arrest rate for narcotic offenses was 15 times greater than that for marijuana offenses. In addition, these trends continued despite increasing arrests, conviction rates, and tougher sentencing practices with more offenders being incarcerated and for longer periods of time.

Though the response of California's criminal justice system to this problem has been strong, the growth in trafficking and use is stunning and threatens to overpower their resources. It is clear that the drug problem requires an even greater effort by parents, our lawmakers, our criminal justice agencies, our educational institutions, and the community at large. These figures, when coupled with the recently completed survey of drug and alcohol abuse amongst junior high and high school students in California commissioned by my office, underscore both the magnitude of the problem and the critical need for all of our institutions, both public and private, to work together to stem the rising tide of substance abuse in California.

HIGHLIGHTS

After four consecutive years of decrease, the California Crime Index offenses registered a slight increase of .6 percent.

Willful homicide, forcible rape, and burglary crimes continued their downward trend initiated in 1980.

Since 1980, total arrest rates remained relatively stable with a slight increase of 2.9 percent.

The juvenile arrest rate increased during the last two years and appears to be reversing the sharp downward trend recorded in 1980 through 1983.

Arrests for drug law violations have shown dramatic increases. In particular, the category of narcotic drug law arrests has increased nearly 140 percent since 1980.

Conviction rates have continued to increase since 1982. In 1985, the rate of convictions was 58.3 percent of adult felony arrests reaching final disposition.

Sentences to state institutions have increased steadily since 1980. In 1985, of those convicted, 15.9 percent received a state institution sentence as compared to 12 percent in 1980.

The rate of adults committed to state institutions has shown a substantial growth averaging almost 14 percent per year since 1980.

The role of the Bureau of Criminal Statistics is:

- To collect, analyze, and report statistical data which provide valid measures of crime and the criminal justice process;
- To examine these data on an ongoing basis to better describe crime and the criminal justice system;
- To promote the responsible presentation and use of crime statistics.

CRIMES

CRIMES

WHAT IS A CRIME?

A crime is an act specifically prohibited by law, or failure to perform an act specifically required by law, for which punishment is prescribed.

- Felonies are serious crimes typically punishable by imprisonment in state prison.
- Misdemeanors are less serious crimes typically punishable by imprisonment in county jail and/or fine, accompanied by probation.
- Infractions are the least serious crimes and are usually punishable by a fine.

HOW ARE CRIMES COUNTED?

All crimes are not counted on a nationwide, or in California on a statewide, scale. Instead, there are two methods used as indicators of the scope of crime and its fluctuations.

Victimization Studies have been conducted regularly by the Federal Government since 1972. The method is similar to public polling, in which a representative sample of households and commercial organizations is selected and their occupants interviewed to determine the crimes which have been committed against them and/or their premises. The amount of crime is determined by the responses of the representative sample, expressed in percentages of the entire population.

The Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program was inaugurated 50 years ago and is administered on the national level by the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). It provides criminal statistics for use in law enforcement administration, operation, and management. In California, this program is administered by the Bureau of Criminal Statistics (BCS).

As part of this program, law enforcement agencies throughout the state report information to BCS on "selected" offenses. Offenses reported are classified by UCR definitions designed to eliminate differences among various states in penal code definitions of crimes. This information is not only incorporated in this Crime and Delinquency report; it is processed and forwarded to the FBI for use in its annual publication, Crime in the United States.

The offenses, selected because of their seriousness, frequency of occurrence, and likelihood of being reported to the police, are: willful homicide, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny-theft, motor vehicle theft, and arson. Except for larceny-theft, UCR does not count misdemeanors and infractions.

BCS differs slightly from the FBI in presentation of crime data. The California Crime Index (CCI) comprises willful homicide, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, and motor vehicle theft. These crimes are all felony offenses. When a 1983 law raised the lower limit of felony theft from $200 to over $400, BCS dropped theft ($200 and over) from its measure of crime. Arson data have been collected only since 1980. Therefore, to maintain felony trend data in the CCI, only six offenses are included.

In 1982, the Federal Bureau of Justice Statistics and the FBI initiated a joint study of the National UCR Program which has been operational since 1930. Subsequent to the study, a recommendation was made to the U.S. Department of Justice to convert the current national summary UCR system to an Incident-Based Reporting (IBR) system. Under an IBR system, California law enforcement agencies would submit a separate record on each incident, including descriptive data on each crime that occurred during the incident. This recommendation was supported by the U.S. Department of Justice in a 1985 report entitled Blueprint for the Future of the Uniform Crime Reporting Program.

WHAT IS A CRIME RATE?

Crime rates describe the number of events reported to the police per 100,000 population. In effect, the number of crimes is divided by the total population. For instance, in 1985 there were 86,464 robberies in California and the population was 26,365,100, equalling a robbery crime rate per 100,000 population of 327.9.

$$\frac{86,464}{26,365,100} = .003279 \times 100,000 = 327.9$$

CLEARANCE RATE

Clearance rates are determined by dividing the number of clearances reported by the number of crimes reported. For instance, in 1985 there were 1,838 clearances for willful homicide crimes and 2,781 willful homicides reported, equalling a willful homicide clearance rate of 66.1.

$$\frac{1,838}{2,781} = .6609 \times 100 = 66.1$$

WHAT ARE THE UCR LIMITATIONS?

The UCR Program does not account for all crimes. For example, not all crimes reported to the police are counted in the UCR system and some crimes, narcotic sales and prostitution, for instance, are not reported to the police. Some Index crimes go undetected and therefore unreported.

Another reason for underreporting of serious crime is the hierarchy rule. Most offenses occur singly as opposed to many crimes being committed simultaneously. However, if several offenses are committed at the same time, only one is reported through UCR. For example, if a person were to enter a bar, rob eight patrons, and kill the bartender, only the homicide would be reported.

The hierarchy rule assigns a value to each of the crimes and requires that only the single most serious offense be reported. Arson is the exception. Since arson frequently occurs in conjunction with other crimes reported in the UCR system, it was felt that valuable information would be lost using the hierarchy rule.

The UCR system collects information in summary form which shows one count for each offense reported. No distinction can be made as to the range of seriousness that can be present in most offenses.

CRIMES

CRIMES

CAN JURISDICTIONAL COMPARISONS BE MADE WITH UCR DATA?

UCR data are collected nationwide in a manner that standardizes the definitions of offenses. However, a number of factors can influence crime counts in particular jurisdictions. These factors should be considered when using UCR crime statistics, especially for comparison purposes.

- Variations in composition of the population, particularly age structure.
- Population density and size of locality and its surrounding area.
- Stability of population with respect to residents' mobility and transient factors.
- Economic conditions, including job availability.
- Cultural conditions, such as education, recreation, and religious characteristics.
- Climate.
- Effective strength of law enforcement agencies.
- Administrative and investigative emphases of law enforcement.
- Policies of other components of the criminal justice system (i.e., prosecutorial, judicial, correctional, and probational).
- Attitudes of citizenry toward crime.
- Crime-reporting practices of citizenry.

WHAT IS THE VALUE OF THE UCR PROGRAM?

Since its conception in 1930, UCR has become a nationwide Program. All California law enforcement agencies report UCR data. Quality control surveys conducted by BCS staff since the mid-1970s have shown a high level of compliance with UCR reporting standards. The number of participants and the amount of data collected under the stringent rules of the system make it a prime indicator of the amount and fluctuation of serious crime.

WHAT IT ALL MEANS

It means crime is not an easy thing to measure. In California, however, due to the high quality of its police agencies and their close cooperation with the State Department of Justice, UCR is, and has been for many years, an extremely good indicator of the amount and fluctuation in crimes reported to the police.

CRIMES

California Crime Index, 1980-1985

The California Crime Index (CCI) comprises willful homicide, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, and motor vehicle theft.

From 1980 to 1985:

- California Crime Index offenses reported decreased 19.5 percent in rate per 100,000 population.

From 1984 to 1985:

- The California Crime Index increased .6 percent in rate.

In 1985,

Of 828,461 California Crime Index offenses reported:

- Violent crimes accounted for 24.4 percent (202,066).
- Property crimes accounted for 75.6 percent (626,395).

The four-year downward trend of crimes reported ended in 1985 with a slight increase (.6 percent).

CRIMES

Violent Crimes, 1980-1985

Violent crimes are willful homicide, forcible rape, robbery, and aggravated assault.

From 1980 to 1985:

- Violent crimes reported decreased 13.2 percent in rate.

From 1984 to 1985:

- The violent crime rate increased .4 percent.

In 1985,

Of 202,066 violent crimes reported:

- Willful homicide accounted for 1.4 percent (2,781).

From 1980 to 1985:

- The rate of willful homicides reported decreased 26.6 percent.

From 1984 to 1985:

- Willful homicides decreased .9 percent in rate.

In 1985,

Of 2,781 willful homicides reported, the type of weapon used was known in 2,747 cases (98.8 percent). Of these:

- Knives or cutting instruments accounted for 24.0 percent (660).
- Other weapons, such as blunt objects, personal weapons (hands, fists, feet), and "other" accounted for 19.7 percent (540).

Of all the California Crime Index offenses, willful homicide registered the largest decrease from 1980 to 1985 (26.6 percent).

Homicides Involving Peace Officers, 1976-1985

Because of the relatively small numbers of both peace officers killed in the line of duty and justifiable homicides by peace officers each year, annual percent changes are unreliable for detecting meaningful trends. Consequently, these data have been analyzed over two five-year periods.

Peace officers killed in the line of duty

From 1976–1980 to 1981–1985:

- There was a 34.0 percent decrease in the number of peace officers killed in the past five years compared to those killed in the previous five years (33 and 50, respectively).

From 1984 to 1985:

- The number of peace officers killed decreased from 6 to 4.

Justifiable homicides by peace officers

From 1976–1980 to 1981–1985:

- There was a 21.2 percent decrease in the number of justifiable homicides by peace officers in the past five years compared to those in the previous five years (372 and 472, respectively).

From 1984 to 1985:

- The number of justifiable homicides by peace officers increased from 64 to 91.

Peace officers killed and justifiable homicides by peace officers both registered large decreases during the last five years.

Larceny-theft – The unlawful taking, carrying, leading, or riding away of property from the possession or constructive possession of another (except embezzlement, fraud, forgery, and worthless checks).

A 1983 law raised the lower limit of felony theft from $200 to over $400. In order to maintain trend data, theft was removed from the BCS measure of crime (formerly Seven Major Offenses and now California Crime Index). A high-volume crime, larceny-theft comprises almost 52 percent of the FBI Crime Index.

From 1980 to 1985:

- The rate of total larceny-theft crimes reported decreased 11.6 percent.

From 1984 to 1985:

- Total larceny-theft crimes increased 1.1 percent in rate.

In 1985, of 892,846 larceny-theft crimes reported:

- Theft over $400 in value accounted for 22.7 percent (202,773).
- Theft $200 to $400 in value accounted for 15.5 percent (138,809).
- Theft $50 to $199 in value accounted for 25.6 percent (228,142).
- Theft under $50 in value accounted for 36.2 percent (323,122).

CRIMES

Stolen and Recovered Property, 1984-1985

As part of the UCR Program, law enforcement agencies submit monthly reports to the Bureau of Criminal Statistics of the estimated dollar value of property stolen and property recovered. In these reports, type of property is categorized in a uniform manner. However, agencies do not report these data consistently and frequently vary in their methods of estimating the dollar value of stolen property. Furthermore, property stolen and property recovered in any given time period are not identical. For these reasons, dollar values of such property must be viewed as rough approximations.

As shown in Table 11 (page 116),

From 1984 to 1985, it was found that:

- There was an 8.1 percent increase in the dollar value of all property reported stolen.
- There was a 17.4 percent increase in the dollar value of motor vehicles reported stolen.
- There was a 2.9 percent increase in the dollar value of other property reported stolen.

And,

- There was a 10.0 percent increase in the dollar value of all property reported recovered.
- There was an 15.3 percent increase in the dollar value of stolen motor vehicles reported recovered.
- There was a 4.2 percent increase in the dollar value of other stolen property reported recovered.

Stolen and Recovered Property (continued)

In 1985, of the total dollar value of all property reported stolen:

- Stolen motor vehicles accounted for 39.2 percent.
- "Other" property accounted for 60.8 percent.

And, of the total dollar value of property reported recovered,

- Stolen motor vehicles accounted for 85.5 percent.
- "Other" property accounted for 14.5 percent.

When the dollar value of property recovered in 1985 was related to that of property stolen in 1985, it was found that:

- The recovery ratio of all property stolen was 32.1 percent.
- The recovery ratio of stolen motor vehicles was 70.0 percent.
- The recovery ratio of other property stolen was 7.7 percent.

Despite the limitations of law enforcement agency data discussed earlier, the recovery ratios of 1985 were similar to those of earlier years.

CRIMES

Arson, 1980-1985

Arson – Any willful or malicious burning or attempt to burn, with or without intent to defraud, a dwelling house, public building, motor vehicle or aircraft, personal property of another, etc.

Law enforcement agencies began submitting arson crimes data in 1979; however, 1980 was the first year of complete reporting. Because the collection system is fairly new, caution should be exercised when comparing annual data.

From 1980 to 1985:

- The rate of arson crimes reported decreased 35.2 percent.
- The rate of arson of structural property decreased 28.4 percent.
- The rate of arson of mobile property decreased 22.4 percent.
- The rate of arson of other property decreased 46.6 percent.

From 1984 to 1985:

- Arson crimes increased 2.5 percent in rate.
- Arson of structural property increased .3 percent in rate.
- Arson of mobile property increased 8.4 percent in rate.
- Arson of other property increased 1.1 percent in rate.

In 1985, of 20,455 arsons reported:

- Structural property accounted for 38.9 percent (7,954).
- Mobile property accounted for 25.1 percent (5,127).
- Other property accounted for 36.0 percent (7,374). Included in this category are crops, timber, fences, signs, etc.

In 1985, of the total dollar value of all property damaged:

- Structural property accounted for 90.9 percent.
- Mobile property accounted for 8.4 percent.
- Other property accounted for .7 percent.

Arson of mobile property registered the largest increase in number, 11.8 percent from 1984 to 1985, compared to other types of arson.

CRIMES

Clearances, 1980-1985

The statewide clearance rate has remained consistent from year to year; however, individual agency data may vary because of local policies.

Crimes are cleared by arrests or exceptional means. An offense is cleared or "solved" for crime reporting purposes when at least one person is arrested, charged with the commission of the offense, and turned over to the court for prosecution or cited to juvenile authorities. In certain situations a clearance may be counted by "exceptional" means when the police definitely know the identity of the offender, have enough information to support an arrest, and know the location of the offender but for some reason cannot take the offender into custody.

From 1980 to 1985:

- The clearance rate for the California Crime Index offenses increased 9.8 percent.
- The violent crime clearance rate increased 7.3 percent.
- The property crime clearance rate increased 5.4 percent.

From 1984 to 1985:

- The clearance rate for the California Crime Index offenses decreased 4.5 percent.
- The violent crime clearance rate decreased 1.8 percent.
- The property crime clearance rate decreased 7.4 percent.

In 1985,

- The clearance rate for the California Crime Index was 21.2. Clearance rates for individual offenses were:

Willful homicide	66.1
Forcible rape	49.4
Robbery	25.5
Aggravated assault	58.8
Burglary	13.4
Motor vehicle theft	14.6

Note: The clearance rate is the ratio of clearances to crimes reported.

ARRESTS

ARRESTS

WHAT IS AN ARREST?

Arrests occur when persons are taken into custody because they are believed to have violated the law. Not all arrests result in persons being placed in jail. If not released by the arresting agency, many arrestees either post bail or are released on their own recognizance to appear in court at a later date. Others are issued citations, much like traffic tickets, which direct them to appear in court at a later date.

Arrests are divided into two major groups: adult arrests (18 years of age and older) and juvenile arrests. Adults and juveniles may be arrested for either felony-level or misdemeanor-level offenses. A felony-level offense typically results in a sentence to state prison if the offender is convicted as an adult. A misdemeanor-level offense typically results in a sentence of up to one year in a county jail, and/or fine, accompanied by probation.

Juveniles, because of their status, may also be arrested for truancy, incorrigibility, runaway, and curfew violations. These are commonly referred to as status offenses.

HOW ARE ARRESTS REPORTED?

Unlike crimes, which are classified by nationwide Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) standards, arrests are reported by California Penal Code definition of the offense. This may cause some differences in the definition of certain crimes and the arrests for that crime. For instance, theft from a locked automobile is a burglary by California Penal Code definition. The crime would be classified and reported as a theft under UCR definition.

All California law enforcement agencies report arrest and citation information to the Bureau of Criminal Statistics (BCS) on the "Monthly Arrest and Citation Register," which lists each arrestee; includes information on age, sex, and race/ethnic group; and specifies the "most serious" arrest offense and law enforcement disposition. Both arrest and citation information are included in BCS arrest statistics.

ARREST RATES

Most data basic to this section of the report are presented in Tables 15, 21, and 23. Arrest rates are based on the number of arrests per 100,000 population at risk for each year (see Table 67).

LAW CHANGES

On January 1, 1983, a law change raised the lower limit of felony theft from $200 to over $400. This law was last changed in 1923, when the lower limit was raised from $50 to $200.

On January 1, 1982, the law was changed to include driving under the influence of a drug with driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor or a combination of liquor and drugs (23152 and 23153 V.C.). Prior to 1982, driving under the influence of drugs was included in "other drug law violations." This change has little impact on counts within offense groupings.

ARRESTS

Discussion of changes in arrest rates based on different at-risk populations

An arrest rate is the ratio of the number of reported arrests to the population at risk. The three comparison populations used in the Arrests section of this report are: adults (18 years of age and over); juveniles (10–17 years of age), and total (10 years of age and over). If, in calculating periodic changes in arrest rates of any one of these three populations, the size of the population remained constant:

- The arrest rate in any given year would be larger than that of a previous year if the number of arrests reported that year was larger than that of the previous year.
- The arrest rate in any given year would be smaller than that of a previous year if the number of arrests reported that year was smaller than that of the previous year.

However, if the number of arrests remained constant and the size of the population changed,

- The arrest rate in any given year would be smaller than that of a previous year if the population increased.
- The arrest rate in any given year would be larger than that of a previous year if the population decreased.

ARRESTS

Because both the number of arrests and the at-risk populations upon which adult and juvenile arrest rates are based are independent, one would not expect any relationship between the percent change in adult and juvenile arrest rates from one year to another. However, because total arrest rates are based on the sums of both adult and juvenile arrests and adult and juvenile at-risk populations, one would expect the percent change in the total arrest rate from one year to another to reflect percent changes in adult and juvenile arrest rates during the same time period. It does, but the relationship is complex. This complexity is attributed to the fact that percent change in the total arrest rate from one year to another is the result of independent changes in both the number of arrests and the at-risk populations of adults and juveniles in those years. Consequently, in some instances, it is extremely difficult to relate either the magnitude or the direction (positive or negative) of the change in the total arrest rate with those of changes in adult and juvenile arrest rates.

For example, in the analysis of total arrests on page 27, it was stated that from 1980 to 1985 there was a 2.9 percent increase in the total arrest rate, and, during the same period, there was a 6.5 percent increase in the adult arrest rate, and a 12.9 percent decrease in the juvenile arrest rate.

The apparent inconsistency between changes in the total arrest rate and adult and juvenile arrest rates can best be understood by mathematically showing exactly how each occurred.

ARRESTS

FORMULAS

The raw data for the illustration which follows is taken from arrest data presented in Table 15 and annual at-risk populations shown in Table 67.

Total Arrest Rate

For 1980, the arrest rate per 100,000 population at risk equals

$$\frac{1{,}542{,}850 \text{ (arrests)}}{20{,}396{,}859 \text{ (population at risk)}} \times 100{,}000 = 7{,}564.2 \text{ (arrest rate).}$$

For 1985, the arrest rate per 100,000 population at risk equals

$$\frac{1{,}716{,}040 \text{ (arrests)}}{22{,}053{,}576 \text{ (population at risk)}} \times 100{,}000 = 7{,}781.2 \text{ (arrest rate).}$$

From 1980 to 1985, the change in the arrest rate equals

$$\frac{7{,}781.2 - 7{,}564.2}{7{,}564.2} \times 100 = 2.9 \text{ percent.}$$

Adult Arrest Rate

For 1980, the arrest rate per 100,000 population at risk equals

$$\frac{1{,}260{,}324 \text{ (arrests)}}{17{,}356{,}683 \text{ (population at risk)}} \times 100{,}000 = 7{,}261.3 \text{ (arrest rate).}$$

For 1985, the arrest rate per 100,000 population at risk equals

$$\frac{1{,}485{,}079 \text{ (arrests)}}{19{,}200{,}335 \text{ (population at risk)}} \times 100{,}000 = 7{,}734.7 \text{ (arrest rate).}$$

From 1980 to 1985, the change in the arrest rate equals

$$\frac{7{,}734.7 - 7{,}261.3}{7{,}261.3} \times 100 = 6.5 \text{ percent.}$$

Juvenile Arrest Rate

For 1980, the arrest rate per 100,000 population at risk equals

$$\frac{282{,}526 \text{ (arrests)}}{3{,}040{,}176 \text{ (population at risk)}} \times 100{,}000 = 9{,}293.1 \text{ (arrest rate).}$$

For 1985, the arrest rate per 100,000 population at risk equals

$$\frac{230{,}961 \text{ (arrests)}}{2{,}853{,}241 \text{ (population at risk)}} \times 100{,}000 = 8{,}094.7 \text{ (arrest rate).}$$

From 1980 to 1985, the change in the arrest rate equals

$$\frac{8{,}094.7 - 9{,}293.1}{9{,}293.1} \times 100 = -12.9 \text{ percent.}$$

ADULT FELONY ARREST DISPOSITIONS

ADULT FELONY ARREST DISPOSITIONS

The Offender-Based Transaction Statistics (OBTS) System in California describes the aggregate experience of adults arrested for felony offenses from their arrest through final disposition. Data pertain specifically to the 240,978 adult felony arrests reaching final disposition in 1985 which were reported to the Bureau of Criminal Statistics (BCS). We estimate that this number represents approximately 75 percent of all adult felony arrests receiving final dispositions in 1985. Similar levels of reporting also occurred in previous years. The Data Limitations Section of this report contains additional information about this. Despite less than complete reporting, the arrest dispositions which were received by the Department of Justice generally describe the statewide processing of adult felony arrestees through California's criminal justice system in 1985.

The flow chart displays the processing of felony arrest dispositions reported for 1985. After arrest, the subject is released by the arresting agency or referred to the prosecutor, who determines if enough evidence is available to justify filing a complaint. The arrestee is released by the prosecutor or referred to court for adjudication. Either dismissal, acquittal, or conviction occurs at the court level.

ADULT CORRECTIONS

ADULT CORRECTIONS

Adults convicted in California courts are usually placed under the jurisdiction of either the state correctional system or a correctional system operated by local government. The state correctional system provides confinement, rehabilitation, and parole services through the California Department of Corrections (CDC), the California Youth Authority (CYA), the California Rehabilitation Center (CRC), and the California Department of Mental Health (CDMH). Local correctional agencies provide confinement, rehabilitation, and probation services for those sentenced to their care and also house persons awaiting trial or sentencing.

Supervision data are obtained annually by a one-day count of persons either in state or local institutions, or on parole, probation, or outpatient status.

Population rates discussed in this section are based on the adult at-risk population, 18 years of age and older.

JUVENILE
SYSTEM

JUVENILE JUSTICE SYSTEM

The juvenile justice system in California differs from the adult system in the type of offenders received and the manner in which it processes them. The juvenile system receives persons under 18 years of age who have either violated criminal statutes or have committed "status offenses." Status offenses are those acts which are offenses only when committed by a juvenile, such as incorrigibility, truancy, runaway, and curfew.

Law violators and status offenders are referred to probation departments primarily by law enforcement agencies after an arrest. Referrals may also be made by schools, parents, and other sources.

County probation departments are the focal point of the juvenile justice system in California as shown by the accompanying flow chart:

- Referrals are made to the probation department in the minor's county of residence. Nearly all delinquency referrals come from police and sheriff's departments (91.1 percent in 1985) with the remainder by schools, parents, and other sources.

- Determinations are made by the probation departments on how the referred cases are to be handled. A closed or transferred case may be placed on informal supervision, or a delinquency petition may be sought for a court hearing.
- The juvenile court places most of the new petitioned cases under probation department supervision (72.3 percent formal probation and 5.2 percent non-ward probation in 1985).

The BCS Juvenile Court and Probation Statistical System established in 1980 requires the reporting of all delinquency referrals for both new and active cases. All 58 county probation departments report complete new referral data. However, some departments were unable to modify pre-1980 automated reporting programs to include certain types of subsequent referral information. Therefore, subsequent referral data are shown for 54 counties only.

JUVENILE JUSTICE SYSTEM

Juvenile Arrests

Population rates are based on the juvenile at-risk population, 10–17 years of age.

From 1980 to 1985:

- ■ There was a 12.9 percent decrease in the rate of total arrests — including both law violations and status offenses.
- ■ There was a 19.6 percent decrease in the rate of felony-level arrests.
- ■ There was a 9.3 percent decrease in the rate of misdemeanor-level arrests.
- ■ There was a 9.7 percent decrease in the rate of status offense arrests.

From 1984 to 1985:

- ■ There was a 4.7 percent rate increase in total arrests.
- ■ There was a 7.2 percent rate increase in felony-level arrests.
- ■ There was a 4.9 percent rate increase in misdemeanor-level arrests.
- ■ There was a 2.9 percent rate decrease in status offense arrests.

In 1985, of 230,961 juvenile arrests:

- ■ Males accounted for 78.6 percent (181,517).
- ■ Females accounted for 21.4 percent (49,444).

Juvenile arrests reached a low point in 1983, both in number and rate. Those measures have shown increases in 1984 and 1985.

Juvenile Population in County Detention Facilities

County-level detention facilities are used to house juveniles prior to a petition hearing and to provide treatment after court or probation department determinations. These facilities are classified as "secure" and "nonsecure." Secure facilities, such as juvenile halls, camps, and ranches, are to be used solely for law violators. Status offenders may be held in a secure facility, prior to a hearing, for strictly limited time periods and under certain circumstances, such as locating and notifying parents, checking for warrants, or when the juvenile is a danger to himself or others. Nonsecure facilities, such as shelter care or crisis resolution homes, can be used for both law violators and status offenders. Detention data are obtained annually by a one-day count of juveniles in county-level detention facilities.

From 1980 to 1985:

- The number of juveniles in county probation detention facilities increased 24.3 percent (6,818 to 8,474).
- The proportion of juveniles detained in nonsecure facilities decreased from 34.5 to 31.6 percent.
- The proportion of juveniles detained in secure facilities increased from 65.5 to 68.4 percent.

From 1984 to 1985:

- The number of juveniles in county probation detention facilities increased 2.7 percent (8,252 to 8,474).
- The proportion of juveniles detained in nonsecure facilities increased slightly from 31.5 to 31.6 percent.
- The proportion of juveniles detained in secure facilities decreased from 68.5 to 68.4 percent.

In 1985, of 8,474 juveniles in county probation detention facilities:

- Nonsecure facilities accounted for 2,675 (31.6 percent).
- Secure facilities accounted for 5,799 (68.4 percent).

As formal probation placements and caseloads increase, more juveniles are being placed in secure facilities.

Personnel (continued)

In 1985, of 115,243 reported criminal justice agency authorized full-time personnel:

- Law enforcement agency personnel accounted for 64.7 percent (74,567).
- Prosecution agency personnel accounted for 7.0 percent (8,070).
- Public defense agency personnel accounted for 1.9 percent (2,177).
- Court personnel accounted for 1.3 percent (1,502).
- State and local correctional agency personnel accounted for 25.1 percent (28,927).

From 1980 to 1985, correctional officers showed the largest increase of all types of personnel (59.8 percent).

Section 13012 of the Penal Code states "The annual report of the department provided for in Section 13010 shall contain statistics showing: . . . (d) The number of citizens complaints received by law enforcement agencies under Section 832.5. Such statistics shall indicate the total number of such complaints, the number alleging criminal conduct of either a felony or misdemeanor, and the number sustained in each category. The report shall not contain a reference to any individual agency but shall be by gross numbers only. . . ."

Section 832.5(a) of the Penal Code requires that "Each department or agency in this state which employs peace officers shall establish a procedure to investigate citizens' complaints against the personnel of such departments or agencies, and shall make a written description of the procedure available to the public."

Because of the individual nature of the requirements of Penal Code Section 832.5, reporting definitions and procedures vary among reporting agencies. The data shown are accurate and complete to the extent that contributing agencies met their reporting obligations.

KNOWN DATA LIMITATIONS

CRIMES

- Agoura Hills data are not included.
- Long Beach Community College data are not included.

ARRESTS

Arrest and Citation Register

- Homicide arrests from 1981 to 1985 are inflated to some degree. Assault with intent to commit murder is included in some cases because of a 1981 law that repealed Penal Code Section 217.
- El Monte Police Department data are not available from April through December.
- The analysis of race/ethnic data must be considered in light of the subjectivity of the labeling process and recent classifications changes, such as those of the U.S. Bureau of the Census (1980).
- Felony arrest counts may include some misdemeanor warrants for felony offenses.
- Agency reporting problems account for almost all of the increase recorded in 1983 other drug law violations.

ADULT FELONY ARREST DISPOSITIONS

Offender-Based Transaction Statistics System

- These data represent an estimated 75 percent of the actual number of adult felony arrest dispositions which occurred statewide in 1985.
- Caution should be used when comparing adult felony arrest disposition data with reported arrest data. Disposition data are based on the year of final disposition, regardless of when the felony arrest occurred. Arrest data are based upon the year in which the arrest took place.
- The most serious offense an arrestee is charged with is selected as the arrest offense. Severity of possible punishment determines seriousness. The most serious of the court dispositions is selected and its associated offense is the court offense.
- BCS disposition data on state institutional commitments are counted differently from those of other state agencies. For example, the Department of Corrections counts the number of defendants received, even though a defendant may have received a commitment from two or more jurisdictions. In the same situation, BCS counts each commitment as a separate disposition.
- The theft offense category is inflated by an estimated 10 percent. This inflation was the result of a court injunction affecting entry procedures. As a result, from January 1 through September 30, 1985, Penal Code Section 484(a) offenses were entered to the system as felonies rather than as misdemeanors.
- The adult felony arrest disposition data base includes some persons whose age at disposition was under 18. These minors were tried in adult court by provision of the Welfare and Institutions Code.

ADULT CORRECTIONS

Characteristics and Data Limitations

- The data include adults placed on supervised probation only.
- Persons are counted once for each jurisdiction. Thus, data include original grants of probation and do not include subsequent grants of probation to persons already under probation supervision ordered by the same level court in the same county. Also, the probationers under jurisdiction of both superior and lower courts and any who are jurisdictional cases of more than one county are counted more than one time in statewide totals.
- The sources of data are county probation departments' monthly reports of summary data.

JUVENILE JUSTICE SYSTEM

Characteristics and Data Limitations

- While 1982 through 1985 juvenile justice system data are shown as reported, 1980 and 1981 data contain estimated totals for Los Angeles County. Because of variability in reporting by that county's Probation Department, some underreporting occurred during those prior years. By agreement with that agency, estimates were developed that more fully represented the number of new referrals and new petitions handled by the department. These annual estimates for Los Angeles County were added to data for the other 57 counties to produce statewide figures.
- In cases where a juvenile has multiple petitions filed for more than one offense, only the petition with the most serious offense is recorded. This accounts for the differences between BCS counts and the statistics generated by the Administrative Office of the Courts, which counts the number of petitions processed.
- From 1980 through 1984, the new juvenile justice reporting system included 54 counties. Alameda, Los Angeles, San Diego, and Santa Clara counties report in the old format. In 1985, Alameda County began reporting in the new system.

OFFENSE DEFINITIONS OF CRIMES REPORTED

FBI CRIME INDEX OFFENSES: "... seven offenses were chosen to serve as an Index for gauging fluctuations in the overall volume and rate of crime. Known jointly as the Crime Index, these crimes included the violent crimes of murder and nonnegligent manslaughter, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault and the property crimes of burglary, larceny-theft, and motor vehicle theft. By congressional mandate, arson was added as the eighth Index offense in 1979." These offenses were chosen because of their seriousness, frequency of occurrence, pervasiveness in all geographic parts of the country, and likelihood of being reported to law enforcement. (This definition was taken from "Crime in the United States, 1984.")

[a] Status offenses include truancy, incorrigible, runaway, and curfew violations.

[b] Rates are based on annual population estimates provided by the Population Research Unit, Department of Finance.

[c] These rates are based on the population at risk for each year: total (10 years of age and older), adult (18 years of age and older), and juvenile (10—17 years of age) (see Table 67).

Notes: Arrest counts may not agree with previously published data because of a revision to an offense group.

Arrest rates calculated from the total population may not add to the total or subtotal arrest rates because of rounding.

[a] The California State Police, University of California, Lawrence Radiation Laboratory, and Bay Area Rapid Transit are included in the "Other law enforcement agencies" category.

[b] In order to permit meaningful comparisons of workload, full-time court commissioners and referees employed by courts were included as auxiliary judicial positions. This treatment assumes that these court officers were available to handle matters which would have otherwise required the full-time effort of an equivalent number of judges.

[c] Probation departments classification counts were not available for 1980.

Notes: Effective with the 1985 Crime and Delinquency report, Lawrence Radiation Laboratory personnel counts are now included in the law enforcement personnel data in the "Other law enforcement agencies" category.

One-day count of personnel taken June 30 with the exception of police departments, sheriffs' departments, California Highway Patrol, and University of California Police which were taken October 31.

As a result of additional information, 1983 and 1984 public defense and probation department data have been revised from previously published data.

Personnel in Department of Justice and other regulatory agencies are not included.

In 1985, a new survey form was developed by BCS to collect probation department data. Because of the new data collection method, additional classifications may be included in the "All other" category.

[a] Total population at risk, 10 years of age and older.

[b] Adult population, 18 years of age and older.

[c] Juvenile population, 10–17 years of age.

Notes: These population estimates are provided by the Population Research Unit of the California Department of Finance.
Each year, minor adjustments are made in the population estimates. The adjustments have a minimal effect on crime and arrest rates.
Crime rates are based on the total population; arrest rates are based on the population at risk.
